

DEPARTMENT OF COMPUTER SCIENCE
FEDERAL UNIVERSITY, GASHUA
PMB 1005, YOBE STATE
NAME: LAWAN IDRIS
MATRIC No: U17/CPS/1047

HOW TO CURB BRIBERY AND CORRUPTION IN NIGERIA.

Corruption is the major problem that leads to unemployment, insecurity, economic recession and many more in Nigeria. Many attempt by different people in different level writes on how curb corruption in Nigeria. Luckily this help us change the way corruption affect us, Thanks to those who do that.

In my view corruption can only be curb using innovative methods and ideas, while we are fighting, writing, researching on how to curb bribery and corruption, in other hand those that promotes bribery and corruption their finding new way on how to make their things done. Sadly government and some organisation helps in increasing the rate of bribery and corruption unknowingly, and even people help in promoting it. For example: the salary of Police in Nigeria is very low compare to his/her daily need, this is not a reason for them to collect bribe, but it really helps, and the way people help is: giving the bribe if requested or not reporting it to those who are responsible for tackling it. The situation we are now in Nigeria is bribery and corruption is almost everywhere that include education, security health and some government agencies.

Information Technology as a tool for curbing bribery and corruption in Nigeria:

nowadays Information Technology is helping in almost every part of our daily life, the same thing applies to bribery and corruption, and how to curb it.

1. Making awareness to people about affect of bribery and corruption using social media, example: Facebook, Twitter, Instagram.
2. Creating softwares that contain writing about problem of bribery and corruption and how it negatively affect us.
3. Finding useful information about people that are suspected for involving in bribery and corruption, and creating internet based report center, like how CITAD does (reportaproject.ng).
4. Installing interconnected CCTV (Closed Circuit Televisions) on places like banks, schools and government offices.
5. Creating special short TV shows programmes on how to stop giving or collecting bribe.
6. Spreading the news, name, photo of everyone found involved in bribery and corruption, using website, blog, E-paper, and social media.
7. Organizing Teleconferencing by expert on how to curb corruption, and presenting electronic research papers using the teleconferencing platform.

Restructuring of government agencies:

Creating new agencies that will fight bribery and corruption in different level will help in curbing corruption, for example: EFCC and ICPC are playing important role in fighting corruption in Nigeria, but sometimes their work is only in federal level so its better restructure them and creating new one.

Writing on negative effect of corruption:

Creating a special essay writing competition like this will help in curbing the bribery and corruption, like what CITAD organized for tertiary institution students.

Making deep investigation for every political candidate:

Everyone that is corrupted will not hate corruption, and that is another big problem that make bribery and corruption livable in Nigeria and some African countries.

Restructuring the system of security:

Currently some of our securities are corrupted, sadly include NIA (Nigeria Intelligence Agency), it's better to restructure them by changing the way their doing their works, and their is news that shows that many of the security are practicing corruption.

Awareness:

By organizing awareness to the people using different platform will also help in curbing corruption in Nigeria. Since almost have of Nigeria population their involving in bribery and corruption without their knowing, this will reduce it in great amount.

Bribery and corruption now reach a position that almost half of people in Nigeria are doing it, on my own thinking and understanding the best way for curbing it is by awareness to the people of the country.

Conclusion:

Over years many people writes on how to curb corruption in Nigeria, and this help reduced the problem. To write on something that is critical you must think critically, their are many way of curbing it, but in other hand the problem is always changes it's face, these are some among several ways of curbing bribery and corruption in our Nigeria.